Missouri Weekly Hay Summary

As the state passes the mid-point of the fall season, few producers are seeing much hay move and continue to sit and wait for more favorable hay feeding weather. Other than normal dairy and some smaller horse farmers little hay is being moved currently. Even with lower transportation cost and in many cases asking prices which are now mostly leaning towards lower ends of the reported price ranges little is appearing to add any spar to hay movement currently. Hay prices are steady to weak. The supply is heavy and demand is light.
