Missouri Weekly Hay Summary - Week ending 12/18/2009

Several fronts passing threw the state over the past week has had the mercury working over time reporting temperatures. Late last week saw a cold front with below average temperatures which had farmers out chopping several inches of ice followed by a slight warm up, just enough to make feeding slippery on the surface. Another blast of cold brought the axes right back out mid week. Most farmers are feeding some hay now even though the ground is clear the cold requires more energy and most stock piled pasture grass is fading or now gone. Hay movement remains slow as most all farmers have hay piles that will last through much if not all the feeding season depending on how mother nature treats the state come Feb. and Mar. Hay prices are mostly steady to weak. Hay demand is light the supply is heavy. Missouri Department of Agriculture has a hay hotline available for both buyers and sellers.
