Missouri Weekly Hay Summary 03/07/19

Another cold winter weather event took place early in the week, as old man winter just refuses to let go. More mild temperatures with rain are in the forecast for the weekend. Not that anyone needs any moisture currently but the liquid form does sound a bit more appealing. Surprisingly, there have been a few reports from around the state of farmers pulling fertilizer buggies over frozen ground. There is some question as to how effective that will actually be, given the ground conditions. Fears of long term mud once temperatures are actually warm enough to make some take the risk of applying now, opposed to maybe not at all. A news release from the University of Missouri this week highlighted problems of high nitrate levels in hay, which are causing serious problems for some herds. Hay supplies are light, demand is moderate and hay prices are steady. The Missouri Department of Agriculture has a hay directory available for both buyers and sellers. To be listed, or to view the directory visit <http://mda.mo.gov/abd/haydirectory/> for listings of hay <http://agebb.missouri.edu/haylst/> (All prices f.o.b. and per ton unless specified and on most recent reported sales price listed as round bales based generally on 5x6 bales with weights of approximately 1200-1500 lbs).
